All the above boxes are traditional entomology museum cases. These are specially made with a cardboard base, hand covered with white leatherette paper. The box has a clamshell construction, and has a glass front.

For an additional cost of £100, any bespoke butterfly collection can be pinned into an exhibition case.

This is a wooden traditional entomology case, either oak veneer or mahogany stain. The box has a glass lift off lid secured with brass catches. It is lined with cork and paper.

These boxes suit collections of 3 butterflies and upwards.
